President's Message

Hi everyone!

It's Spring and I hope you are enjoying the mostly pleasant temperatures, planting flowers, and all the other lovely things that go with Spring.

When I taught second graders, every Spring we began a hands-on study that taught about insect life using the life cycle of the butterfly as the catalyst for learning. The students were given the opportunity to observe the development of butterflies by raising them in the classroom. The culminating activity included allowing the fully-grown butterflies to soar into the distance, disappearing into the windy and clear Texas sky.

The butterfly larvae were delivered by mail at the end of April. Our instructions stated that we were to leave the "painted ladies" in a little jar until all of the small caterpillars had made their way to the top of the jar. They would then attach themselves to the lid. At that point, we were to remove the paper inside the lid containing all the future butterflies, and safely pin it to the inside of the mesh pavilion that became the butterfly habitat. We were able to watch them grow to adulthood. It was several days before we noticed any change in the small brown chrysalides. Suddenly, they began to move and shake like they were eager to come out and greet the world, which at that moment consisted of 20 excited second graders and their anxious teacher. Finally, the "painted ladies" began to display their freshly painted wings for all to see.

We continued watching our butterflies for several days. We knew that all too soon we would have to let our lovely ladies fly free.

It was a calm and sunny day when we trekked outside with the mesh habitat to set our butterflies free. I unzipped the zipper of the mesh dwelling and out flew several of our ladies. What a dramatic entrance they made! They flew, dipping and diving, checking out their new kingdom. We started to return to our classroom when we noticed that two butterflies had not come out of their sanctuary. I put my hand inside to gently scoop them out. They grasped my fingers firmly and seemed to have no intention of letting go. It seemed as if time stood still for that moment. Suddenly our last "flying flowers" lifted upward to loud applause from their audience.

Spring is a special time. Be sure to take a little break from your quilting to enjoy simple pleasures of the season, such as butterflies!

Meeting Location and Time

BCQG President*

Here are some housekeeping reminders.

1. We will have our mini-quilt challenge at the June meeting. Be sure to fashion your best mini and you might win one of the prizes, $75, $50, or $25. Prizes will be determined by popular vote.
2. Our August meeting will be garage sale night. There won't be a program. We'll have birthday snacks and a garage sale for our members. Admission to the event will be a donation of a door prize item to be used for our door prizes given at each meeting. They can be fat quarters, patterns, anything that someone might like to use for quilting. It can be something from your sewing supply that you don't use any more.
3. Continue your preparations for the quilt show coming up in August. I encourage each of you to enter your work to be celebrated. We will need volunteers to help with the actual event. Your time will be greatly appreciated. Let's have some fun and enjoy the beautiful quilts on display!
4. Don't forget to keep up regular attendance to our general meetings. There will be a drawing for the members who have attended the most meetings from February through December. We have quite a few in the running!

Oh and great job on turning in your volunteer hours!

It was so much fun seeing you all at our last meeting! Thanks everyone, for your hard work and dedication to our guild. You get out of it what you put into it.

I stay up too late quilting. LOL!
Vicky

What else can you do?

Vicky Kidd

I recently had the privilege of attending the Lory Garrett Memorial Ukrainian Easter Egg Workshop, April 2023. Lory was the sister of our own Betty Reisch, as well as a member of our guild. I didn't have the good fortune to know her, but I bet many of you did. Lory painted Ukrainian eggs and was also a quilter.

You all display your talents as artists with every quilt you design and stitch you sew. Art takes so many different forms and directions. Never be afraid to try new things. You never know what other artistic talents you possess.

What else can you do?

APRIL GUILD MEETING

Our April 18th guild meeting speaker was Nancy Russell and her lecture, "Old McDonald had a barn quilt" was so interesting. And the timing was perfect for introduction to our very own Deborah Kay who is doing the Barn Quilt Paint Workshop next month. If you missed out on Nancy's lecture you can see pictures in the newsletter.

MAY GUILD MEETING

May 16th we have Dwayne Kelley who teaches at the Community College giving us a lecture on Personal Safety. He's not a quilter, but I know we will be excited to hear what he can tell us about safety. Come and listen to him on May 16.

Then, as mentioned above, on Wednesday, May 17th we have a workshop provided by our very own Deborah Kay: painting a barn quilt. After Nancy Russell's lecture she came up to me and said that her process does not take as long as Nancy's. We will complete our project in 4 hours, or so. This will be held at the Bear Creek Park at the shelter that's over by the covered bridge on Bear Creek (close to Cindy Ct.) from 9:00am to 3:00pm. (We should finish early). Sign up soon because we will have to stop the sign up by May 10th to give Deborah time to get the supplies and she'll need a final head count by then. The only cost will be for the supplies that Deborah will provide. She estimates this to be around $40 per person. (Of course inflation has crept in since she told me this.)

JUNE GUILD MEETING

June is our Pot Luck dinner meeting and our Mini Quilt Challenge! Each member can enter one mini quilt at the Guild Challenge (you can enter as many as you want in the North Texas Quilt Expo). Remember, if your mini quilt is in the show it can not be in the auction this year. It has to wait for next year. We have PRIZES for our guild mini quilt challenge! 1st place $75, 2nd place $50 and 3rd place $25. Everyone will be able to vote for 3 quilts.

Quilt Show Representative

The North Texas Quilt Festival is fast approaching, and I hope many of you have entered quilts in the judging. I hope many more are entering miniquilts in the auction. Just to bring you up to date...

Tickets will be available soon. Buying from the Guild is preferred, since the Guild then gets a percentage of the sales. T Shirts are available for preorder. If you need a form, please let me know. These are $18 if preordered, and $20 at the door. Again the Guild gets a percentage of the sales. The Guild Booth representatives are collecting items to sell now. Items can be brought to the meeting in May and in June. Please direct any questions to Kayleen Allen. She has been doing a stellar job coordinating this for the past few years.

Quilt Show Boutique

Sheri Jones

For those of you new to the group, this Boutique is a booth among the vendors at the show where we sell items that have been handmade by our members. It has been a fantastic, and fun, way to make money for the guild. We hope you will join in the fun.

We know so many of our members have been working on some great creations to be sold in our booth. Thank you for all you do!

Some suggestions might be: novel pincushions, luggage tags, (especially for children), sewing machine caddy, mini iron carrier, microwave tortilla warmer, fall and Halloween items, kitchen boas.... just some ideas to stimulate your thoughts!

Reminder: We are not to use fabric that is licensed as brand names, sports logos, etc.

You might make one, or several! Please bring them to the guild meeting or contact Kayleen Allen at 817-729-9309, or email kayleen_allen@yahoo.com.

Thank you!

Bee News Quilt Show Boutique

Sheri Jones

The Fabriholics Bee has the fun of helping our fellow bee member, Kayleen Allen, with getting our Guild Boutique up and running for the annual quilt show in August. We get to see, first hand, the creativity of our guild members, keep a record of what we receive, determine pricing, help set up and man the booth. Of course, we try to do our part in coming up with ideas and showing our own contributions.

Quiltville Inn Retreat

Beverly Douglas

Quiltville Inn Retreat started life as a family home in the late 1800's. It remained in the family for over a century, until about 2017 when quilter, designer, teacher, and all around great person Bonnie K Hunter bought it and some of the surrounding property. Over the next 2 years, she and her husband completely renovated the home, and realized Bonnie's dream of opening a retreat space for quilters. They filled it with beautiful antiques and lots of quilts, to make a cozy, inviting space.

I have followed the journey in her blog, quiltville.blogspot.com, from the beginning, and it has been my dream to spend a week there. She takes groups of twelve, and getting into a group was difficult until Irene, who owns Cotton to Quilts quilt shop in Louisville, KY, worked out an arrangement where a couple of times a year, she would pull together 12 people and lead them through a fun week at Quiltville Inn. I was able to get on Irene's list, and a space came available for me to be there March 22-28, 2023. I was thrilled!

I arrived on the appointed day with a car filled with all my sewing stuff: machine, fabrics, supplies, and some clothes. Others were also arriving and Irene was putting together a fine dinner. Once we found our rooms and our sewing space, we got down to the business of meeting each other and learning that people came from as far away as Texas and Florida, as well as points in between. Some had been there before but several of us were newbies. We had large bedrooms with 3 to a room. There are 5 bedrooms and 3 baths. One bedroom is smaller and only holds one bed, which is where Irene stayed. The rest of us were in threes. There are 3 bathrooms, and somehow we made that work. Since all bedding has to be washed and sanitized between retreats, we were advised to bring our own quilts to sleep under. Most of us brought the quilt we wanted to show over the porch rail at the end.

Most retreaters choose a leader from their twelve, and they take turns making meals. They bring all the food and work out menus in advance. Irene does all of that for her groups. The cost is higher but it includes all lunches and dinners, including one dinner in a nice restaurant. She is a wonderful cook and provided us with recipe cards of most of what she made. Breakfast was not included so people could make what they wanted when they wanted, and not be bound by a wakeup time.

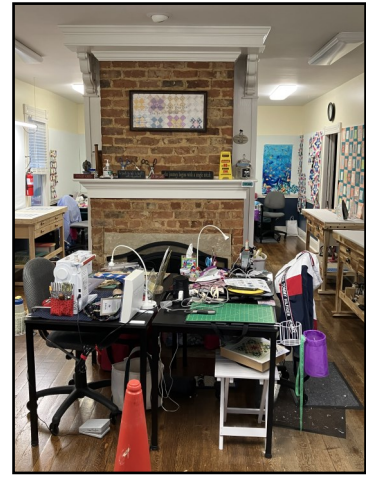

The sewing space is a large room with lots of windows and a central double fireplace. Tables are set around and each has 2 people facing each other. A power tower, task light, cup holder and trash bag are included at each space. There are ironing tables and cutting tables conveniently placed against the walls. All walls are covered in flannel to make design walls. Some people started sewing right after dinner the first night. I was tired from driving so I went up to bed, but when I came down the next morning it was so wonderful to see the design walls filling up with projects. I started a new project I had not even started cutting, so it was a couple of days before I had anything on my wall.

We had 5 days of sewing all day, and for some well into the night, with lots of talk, laughter, the hum of machines quiet only at mealtimes. I made lots of new friends, and found ways to stay in touch. Some retreaters went to Grayson Highlands State Park for a hike and to see the wild ponies. I know from past experience that the initial steep hill you have to climb would be beyond me at this point in my life, so I stayed back and sewed. Another day I did go for a hike down a road close by, Round House Road, which passed by the Round House built in 1870 and now being slowly restored. 1 ½ miles down the road is the State Line between Virginia and North Carolina. The road follows Wilson Creek to where it empties into the New River.

I had a fabulous time. I absolutely recommend this at least once, especially in one of Irene's groups. Pros: spacious sewing area, several ironing and cutting tables, very friendly and helpful people. Bedrooms are large enough that having 2 roommates is not a problem. Two quilt stores in driving distance, and Bonnie has some items for sale. Cons: not wheelchair accessible (Bonnie makes no apologies for this, it's an historic home), no bedrooms on first floor. Unless you are in one of Irene's groups, meals are not included. (More Photos on Next Page)

Magazines & Books

Lauren Friend

Hi! I'm Chair of Magazines & Books.

Two Items:

1. We need all those great magazines and hard-cover books for our Magazine/Book Table. I will accept anything from year 2013 and forward. Anything older just doesn't "move" or hold interest, as quilting styles have changed so much.
2. I am not sure how this program was tagged 'swap', but it has added confusion. Several ladies, at our last meeting asked about swapping magazines-one for one?? Or swap a book for how many magazines?? Just Magazine/Book Table is sufficient. This program used to be called our Guild Library .

Regards,
Lauren Friend,
Magazine/Book Chair

Thank you everyone that dropped off quilts and crocheted blankets last week at our Guild meeting. I will be making a trip to J.P.S. next week to deliver the items. J.P.S. is always grateful for whatever we send. Additionally, we had several quilts earmarked for Gatehouse and Kayleen will ensure that they are delivered to them.

I also want to thank you for tracking your hours this past month. You all turned in a total of 270.50 hours for April, which brings the Year To Date total to 1,224.30 hours. In comparison, for all of 2022, we had a total of 1,091 hours - a difference of 133.30 hours. Amazing!!! Please continue to track your hours and let me know what I can do to make it easier for you.

(Just a quick note- there was a new member at this past meeting who was looking for a pattern for preemie hats. I usually find most of my patterns on Pinterest. If you can't find anything there, please let me know and I will find a pattern for you. Just let me know if knit or crochet)

Bear Creek Quilt Guild
Board Zoom Meeting Minutes
April 4, 2023

President, Vicky Kidd, opened the meeting at 6:30 pm on ZOOM with the following officers and members present: Vicky Kidd, Kathi Runyan, Kathy Longo, Aleta Mayrose, Pam Roark, Angela Hoss, Beverly Douglas, Mona Livingston, and Selena Woodward. Vicky welcomed everyone to the meeting. February 2023 Board minutes were reviewed and motion to accept was made by Kathi Runyan, with a second by Aleta Mayrose, and the motion passed. There was no Board meeting held in March 2023.

Treasurer's Report: Tabled for next meeting.

Unfinished Business: None

New Business:

Prize Money for Guild Mini Quilt challenge—The Guild mini quilt challenge will be held at the June member meeting. Suggested prizes would be $75 for first place, $50 for second place, and $25 for third place. Beverly Douglas made a motion to approve this, seconded by Kathi Runyan, and the motion passed. More information to follow in the newsletter regarding dimensions and deadlines.

Zoom continuation—There was much discussion on continuing Zoom for meetings when so few attend; Can be labor intensive when filming. Other options being explored to assist with setup, etc. Motion was to initially end Zoom for meetings and motion didn't pass. After more discussion, Kathi Runyan made a motion to continue for now, exploring perhaps using a tripod or stand to not disturb attendees at the meeting, seconded by Selena Woodward, and the motion passed. Vicky asked for more volunteers to assist with this process if anyone is interested.

August meeting—Vicky suggested we hold the August meeting even though it lands in the week of the Quilt Show. It was suggested we hold a "Guild Garage Sale," to offer to sell some "stash" items. Perhaps members could donate some items for door prizes as well. Everyone agreed.

Non-members at Retreats—A question concerning members bringing non-guild members to our retreats was discussed. Members do get first preference. If there are spaces available, that would be fine. Mona is working on setting up the fall retreat. More information to follow. For the April retreat, there are 20 attendees so far.

Anniversary Quilt—Vicky asked that we think about making an Anniversary quilt for the NTQF quilt show. More to follow.

Programs—Aleta reported workshop attendance is down and we need to discuss way to increase them. It was suggested that maybe we could offer more Zoom speakers and workshops. There was also discussion on how much to spend on speaker deposits. These will be considered on an individual basis by the board. More to follow.

Bear Creek Quilt Guild
Member In-Person Meeting Minutes
Bessie Mitchell House Grapevine, Texas
April 18, 2023

Vicky Kidd opened the meeting at 7 pm with a welcome and thanked everyone for coming. She reminded everyone to keep wearing their name tags. Chris Atwell has the Dallas Modern Guild raffle items for sale in the back which include a sew Ezi-table for your machine, and a selection of mini quilts made by the members. The drawing will be held next month and the winner need not be present to win. JoAnne Sheppard Introduced and welcomed one new member, Siri Sinha. There were no guests. There are currently 23 members still in the running for the “Near Perfect Attendance” drawing(s). Keep coming to be eligible for the drawing to be held at the December meeting. Great prizes will be given out! Motion to accept the minutes was made by Teresa Gallagher, seconded by Betty Reisch, and the motion passed.

Treasurer’s Report: Selena Woodward reviewed activity for the last month. No written report received.

Old Business:

Quilt Show- Vicky went over some Quilt Show news including T-Shirts, mini quilts and submission requirements. She reminded everyone to prepare a mini quilt for our June meeting and then turn it in for the show. A good portion of our Guild income is provided by the sale of mini quilts.

Quilt Show Boutique- Kayleen Allen displayed some donations for the boutique and asked everyone to continue to prepare items, this is the other major money making event for the guild. Kay Thomas and Vicky reminded everyone that quilt show entry is currently open for guild members through June 1st. Mini quilt submissions are not open yet, but will be soon. Outside non-member submissions will open approximately on May 1st. Entries for Junior submissions are currently open.

New Business:

The June meeting will be our Mini Quilt show, everyone is invited to submit a mini quilt for voting. Monetary prizes will be awarded. There will be an August meeting even though we will be in the midst of the quilt show. There is no speaker for that night, but instead we will hold a member’s garage sale. We can set up tables and everyone can bring things that need to be cleaned out of their sewing rooms to sell. The people with August birthdays will bring snacks. Admission for the evening’s fun will be a donation to the laundry basket to be used for future door prizes.

Committee reports:

Community- Keep turning in volunteer hours! Deb Heid gave a report on volunteer hours which includes a YTD total of 1035, exceeding the whole year’s total from last year. April’s total was 81.25.

Retreats- Mona Levingston shared the weekend’s retreat at Sunset. There was wonderful food, fun, games and lots of quilting.

Programs- Aleta reviewed the next few month’s meeting and workshop activities. In May, Duane Kelly, a Security Specialist will provide personal safety techniques. There will be a barn quilt workshop, conducted by Deborah Kay to be held at Bear Creek Park. Check the newsletter for more specifics.

Show and Tell- was held with many beautiful quilts on display.

Boutique-Vicki showcased some items for the boutique and patterns will be e-blasted to all in the next few days.

Door prizes given out.

After a short break, the meeting resumed with Aleta introducing Nancy Russell.

Meeting was adjourned at 8:20.
